

Question Part

not correct	Sources A and B both agree that children working in factories helps them stay healthy and to keep them active.
	Source A states that abuse of children working in factories are "rare" and most of the children are "healthy and happy." This shows, that children workers isn't as bad as it seems.
good job	Source B states, the "same children" now have better and "healthier lives."
using quotes	Sources A and B agree that children working in factories helps kids stay off the streets. Source A says if children weren't allowed to "work" they'd be "kicked out" and "thrown on the streets." This shows, children are safer working in factories. ^{? better of} not correct	Source B states, children had their own little rights and had their own little "homes" to "stay off the streets."
yes	Source B states, that children 10 or younger shouldn't be able to work. ^{? what?} Source A seems to think it's really an exaggeration. Source B says, "textile males of 6-7-8 years, old are discontinued in my factories." ^{? what?} Source A states, "I believe that they may have been extremely exaggerated." This shows, that Source A is fine with young children work in factories but Source B doesn't want kids to young to work instead get an education.

Sources A and B both agree that children working in factories helps them stay healthy and keep them active. Source A states that the abuse of children working in factories is “rare” and most of the children are “healthy and happy.” This shows that being a child worker isn’t as bad as it seems. Source B states the “same children” now have better and “healthier lives.”

Sources A and B agree that children working in factories helps kids stay off the streets. Source A says if children weren’t allowed to work, they would be “kicked out” and “thrown on the streets.” This shows that children are safer working in factories. Source B states children had their own little rights and had their own little “homes” to “stay off the streets.” Source B states that children 10 or younger shouldn’t be able to work. Source A seems to think it’s really an exaggeration. Source B says the use of “textile males of 6-, 7-, and 8-year-olds are no longer working in my factories.” Source A states “I believe that they may have been have extremely exaggerated.” This show shows that Source A is fine with young children working in factories, but source B doesn’t want kids too young to work so they can instead get an education.